

Jennifer Irizarry has lived in Tampa Bay for over 20 years. She is a broker associate with Lombardo Team Real Estate and has been licensed since 2016.

Jennifer first entered into the real estate market, as a business consultant for clients that were looking to expand their real estate portfolio. Becoming a Realtor became a natural progression for Jennifer, her business, and most importantly –her clients.

She allocates a significant amount of her time devoted to working with like-minded women-business owners in mentorship, and finding the perfect commercial space for their growing and expanding businesses.

Jennifer is known for her unshakable standard of ethics and attention to detail. She has always taken personal interest in her clients and colleagues; listening carefully to their needs and answering questions candidly. Her thoroughness and consistent follow through attribute to the foundation of her business philosophy today.

Having an understanding of the integral role real estate plays on our economy, Jennifer's love for real estate can be seen through her continued education and commitment to community involvement. She is a member of NAR, FGCAR, COSTAR, Vice Chair of the Commercial Subcommittee, and is actively working towards her CCIM Designation.

Realtor, consultant, wife, and mother Jennifer believes unequivocally in giving back to her community. She has and continues to serve on committees across Tampa Bay and looks forward to dedicating her passion for real estate as a Director for the Greater Tampa Realtors, and serving its members with sincere dedication and devotion.
